Ipsos MORI's Annual Study of Young People 2022

YOUNG PEOPLE OMNIBUS

Ipsos MORI’s Study of Young People

- Our school has been asked to take part in Ipsos MORI’s Annual Study of Young People.
- Every year since 1995, this survey has asked 11 to 16-year old's questions about their lives, opinions and experiences.
- Our school is one of around 80 schools in Britain that will take part this year. About 2,700 pupils will take part in total.

- Different organisations with an interest in hearing from young people ask questions on the survey each year. The survey helps them to understand what young people in Britain think and what their lives are like.
- The findings from the research are published and used by government departments, researchers and charities.

How the study works

- The questionnaire is anonymous, and you won't be asked to type in your name. That means that no-one looking at the findings will know who has taken part, and no-one you know will see your answers.

- Ipsos MORI are interested in young people's honest opinions and experiences, so please don't discuss your answers or try to see other people's answers.

- It is completely up to you whether you want to take part.

What the study covers

The questions are asked by organisations who would like to hear young people's opinions on topics such as:

- Going to university;
- Gambling;
- Climate change;
- The Covid-19 pandemic.

To keep the survey short, you may not have to answer questions on all these topics.

The study is sponsored by the following organisations:

- The Gambling Commission, a government regulator interested in what you think about gambling;
- [and other organisations].

What if I have any questions?

Please read through your leaflet before you start the survey.

It includes:

- Information about the research
- Who you can contact at Ipsos MORI if you have any questions about the research
- Who you can talk to if you have any worries
- A puzzle to complete if you finish early!

Thank you for taking part!

Ipsos MORI is very grateful to schools and pupils for taking part in our survey.

As a thank you for helping with this year's survey we will be sending your school…

- A pack of interesting data Ipsos MORI has collected from young people recently, and;
- An A3 poster highlighting findings from this survey
